

A B S T R A C T

The gauge comprises concentric inner and outer tubes made of insulating material, with two capacitors each 5 constituted by a set of electrodes, each set having at least one pair of two electrodes in strip form extending along the gauge and placed facing each other on the facing walls of the inner and outer tubes.